

SCULLCAP & VALERIAN TABLETS

The only veterinary herbal medicine (classification AVM-GSL) licensed to relieve anxiety, nervousness and excitability in pets.

DOSING INSTRUCTIONS:

Dogs and cats: 1 tablet for every 5kg bodyweight per day, ideally split morning and night.

When the stressful situation is at its worst, this dose can be doubled. For fireworks give the second dose 2 hours before dusk and maintain double dosing for as long as it is necessary.

VALERIAN COMPOUND

Contains pure extracts of three herbs in liquid form, which ensure it acts within just 30 minutes, making it ideal as a top-up for especially frightening or unplanned events.

DOSING INSTRUCTIONS:

Dogs: By mouth or in food – Small dogs: ¼ tsp Medium dogs: ½ tsp Large dogs: 1 tsp Giant breeds: 1 - 1½ tsp

Cats: A few drops on bedding and a further ¼ tsp by mouth or in food when fireworks are severe, or in other stressful situations.

“HAPPY CHILLING OUT”

Fireworks usually make my Bernese, Fizz, sit on the sofa shaking and whinging or try to hide under the dining room table. Last year, thanks to the Scullcap & Valerian Tablets, she was quite happy chilling out on the sofa, even snoring at one point! She didn't bat an eyelid at them! I'm so pleased.

The herbal way to manage your pet's anxiety this firework season

www.dorwest.com

MAKE SURE YOUR PET ISN'T AFRAID OF THE SPARK

Whether it's 1 month or 1 day before bonfire night, help your pet by following our 3 step advice.

STEP 1: Recognise

Recognising anxiety and fear in dogs isn't always as straightforward as it appears in cartoons. Look and listen to your dog, as any one of the following behaviours can be a signal that they are struggling:

Flattened ears

Excessive lip licking

Trying to hide/covering

Darting eyes

Barking/whining/howling

Destructiveness/toileting indoors

Tail between legs

Trembling/shaking

Panting/salivating

Early recognition

Early intervention

Easier to tackle

Better for your pet

STEP 2: Prepare

Desensitise

Consider starting firework desensitisation programmes now, to gently get your pet used to fireworks soundsthem realise that they have nothing to fear.

Create a safe place

A pet crate covered with a heavy blanket, containing treats, favourite toys and a water bowl provides a nice hidey hole for a pet to escape to. Give your pet time to get used to it and never force them to go in.

ID check

Make sure your pet's microchip details are up to date and they are wearing a collar with an ID tag, so that if they escape, they can be quickly and safely returned.

Act normal

Be a good example by remaining calm yourself. Stay with your pet to reassure them with your presence and respond to their signs of fear with calming words but avoid excessive cuddling or being too vocal, as this can upset pets more.

Keep the noise out

TVs and radios can help provide some background noise (don't be tempted to turn them up above normal though), make sure windows are firmly covered and all external doors are shut.

(For severe phobias)

1 MONTH TO GO

If your pet has a severe phobia, they will benefit from being given Scullcap & Valerian Tablets on a daily basis now.

(For Moderate Phobias)

10 DAYS TO GO

Start giving Scullcap & Valerian Tablets daily (split the dose between AM and PM).

1 DAY TO GO

If necessary double the dose of Scullcap & Valerian Tablets (or start giving now – it's never too late!)

THE BIG DAY

Keep giving the Scullcap & Valerian Tablets at the higher rate with a dose being given before dusk. Ensure Valerian Compound is ready for top ups, if necessary.

STEP 3: Advice

Get in touch with the team at Dorwest via our website www.dorwest.com/licensedtochill so that we can use our 70 years of herbal expertise to help develop a personalised calming plan for your pet.

In the case of severe phobias, speaking to a vet is always recommended.

PREPARE TO BE RELAXED ABOUT FIREWORKS

Many pets dislike loud noises with some even developing debilitating phobias. It doesn't have to be like that though, so let us help with our advice and 7 decades of herbal expertise.

HOW HERBAL PRODUCTS CAN HELP YOUR PET

Our veterinary licensed herbal medicine is formulated to naturally help dogs and cats relax, using high quality, authenticated herbs, full of active compounds. They safely calm activity in the nervous system without sedating or affecting muscles so you and your pet can relax, despite fireworks.
